

ASTROLOGY

Gameplay

Give everyone a pencil and a copy of these rules. Find two standard six-sided dice to share.

Each round, roll the dice. Everyone should either:

- Choose a star that matches a die result and is not in a constellation. Start a new constellation with that star.
- Draw a line between the last star they added to a constellation and another star that matches a die result and is not in a constellation.

Notes: A constellation is a group of stars that are connected by lines. Each constellation may have at most one star of each number. Lines may not cross other lines or pass through intervening stars.

Scoring

Each round, any players who cannot take an action will receive a strike. The game ends when any player receives their third strike.

Players are then awarded points based on the number of stars in each of their constellations according to the following table:

Stars	2	3	4	5	6
Points	1	3	6	10	15

The player with the highest total score wins.
